DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-3 are allowed.
2. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Regarding claim 1, the prior art of record does not disclose a method of enhancing a content that comprises contiguous blocks containing a program stream and interleaved blocks containing interleaved program streams, said program streams being readable independently of one another, any occurrence of consecutive interleaved blocks in said content being forbidden, said method comprising a step of using an authoring system for processing an original block of said content so as to interleave at least one enhancement program stream associated with at least one original program stream of said original block, said original program stream comprising original program units and said enhancement program stream comprising enhancement program units, an original program unit being associated with an enhancement program unit, said processing step comprising:

a) if said original block is a contiguous block:

using the authoring system for checking whether interleaving of said enhancement program stream(s) into said original block would lead to an occurrence of consecutive interleaved blocks in said content, and in such a case, using the authoring system for splitting said original contiguous block into a main block and at least one contiguous separation block, using the authoring system for using said contiguous separation block(s) to separate said consecutive interleaved blocks, using the authoring system for interleaving the enhancement program units associated with the original program units of said main block, if any, into said main block, interleaving the enhancement program units associated with the original program units of a contiguous separation block, if any, into an interleaved block that is adjacent to said contiguous separation block,

b) in other cases, using the authoring system for interleaving said enhancement program stream into said original block;

c) using the authoring system for adding a pointer in said original program units that points to the enhancement program unit it is associated with.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

3. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 4-8 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Claims 4-5 are directed to computer readable medium. Computer readable medium, as recited in claims and the disclosure could include transitory signals. In order to make a computer readable medium claim statutory, the claim must be recited in a way to exclude transitory media. Examiner suggests inserting the wording "non-transitory computer readable medium".

Claims 6-8 are directed to content stored on a computer readable medium. This content is claimed to be obtained by applying a method of enhancing a content. As the claims are directed towards a "non-functional descriptive material" stored on a computer readable medium and refer to mere arrangement of data, the claims are nonstatutory.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed 06/30/2010 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Regarding claims 4-5, the computer readable medium, as recited in claims and the disclosure could include transitory signals. In order to make a computer readable medium claim statutory, the claim must be recited in a way to exclude transitory media. Examiner suggests inserting the wording "non-transitory computer readable medium".

Regarding claims 6-8, when nonfunctional descriptive material is recorded on some computer-readable medium, in a computer or on an electromagnetic carrier signal, it is not statutory since no requisite functionality is present to satisfy the practical application requirement. Merely claiming nonfunctional descriptive material, i.e., abstract ideas, stored on a computer-readable medium. See Diamond v. Diehr, 450 U.S. 175, 185-86, 209 USPQ 1, 8. For example, data including but not limited to music/video is not a computer component, and it does not become statutory by merely recording it on a compact disk.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
